

This architectural site plan illustrates a city street layout, likely in a European urban context. The plan features a central street, Gorchhestrasse, which runs vertically through the center. To the left of this street, several smaller streets are shown: Poststrasse at the top, St. Jakobstrasse in the middle, and St. Nikolastrasse at the bottom. To the right, Poststrasse is also visible, along with St. Nikolastrasse and St. Jakobstrasse. The plan includes numerous building footprints, some of which are shaded in light gray, indicating existing structures. Other buildings are outlined in black, representing proposed or planned developments. The street layout is characterized by a grid-like pattern, with buildings typically situated along the street frontages. The plan also shows various urban features, such as sidewalks, streetlights, and small public spaces. The overall design suggests a focus on urban renewal or development within an existing city fabric.
